Clinical Anatomy

Volume 22 Issue 8 (November 2009)

Compendium of Anatomical Variants

A case of extremely long styloid process without clinical symptoms and complications (p 865-867)
Eliska Kubikova, Ivan Varga
Published Online: Mar 3 2009 2:14PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20782

Doubled omohyoid muscle in human: A case report and literature review (p 868-870)
Wang Guo-Hua, Jia Xiao-Ling, Wang Rong, Zhang Wei-Qiong, Bao Ting-Wei, Liu Jian-Hua
Published Online: Nov 20 2008 5:32PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20725

Chondrofascialis versus pectoralis quartus (p 871-872)
Jorge M. Barcia, José M. Genovés
Published Online: May 4 2009 10:11PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20798

Short branch of type IV dual left anterior descending coronary artery running as an aberrant obtuse marginal branch: A previously undescribed arrangement (p 873-875)
Andreas Y. Andreou, Panayiotis C. Avraamides
Published Online: Mar 20 2009 10:57AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20791

The frequency of accessory sacroiliac joints (p 876-877)
Joseph D. Fortin, Katherine E. Ballard
Published Online: Jan 27 2009 12:58PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20772

Unusual combination of musculotendinous variations in the plantar musculature (p 878-880)
Sonali Kataria, T.S. Roy
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20857

A case of double Gantzer's muscle and its possible role in nerve entrapment (p 881-882)
N. Eid, Y. Otsuki
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20862

Reviews

Anatomy in the Third Reich: An outline, part 1. National Socialist politics, anatomical institutions, and anatomists (p 883-893)
S. Hildebrandt
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20872

Anatomy in the Third Reich: An outline, part 2. Bodies for anatomy and related medical disciplines (p 894-905)
S. Hildebrandt
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20873

Anatomy in the Third Reich: an outline, part 3. The science and ethics of anatomy in National Socialist Germany and postwar consequences (p 906-915)
S. Hildebrandt
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20874
Original Communications

Anatomy of the floor of the third ventricle in relation to endoscopic ventriculostomy (p 916-924)
Selcuk Aydin, Selcuk Yilmazlar, Sibel Aker, Ender Korfali
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20867

Anatomical features of the opening of the nasolacrimal duct and the lacrimal fold (Hasner’s valve) for intranasal surgery: A cadaveric study (p 925-931)
Mustafa Orhan, Zöhre Asli Aktan Ikiz, Canan Yurttas Saylam
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20866

An anatomical study of the muscles that attach to the articular disc of the temporomandibular joint (p 932-940)
Kosuke Matsunaga, Akira Usui, Kumiko Yamaguchi, Keiichi Akita
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20865

Letters to the Editor

The plastinate: Lessons from the mummy and Kentai (p 941)
N. Eid, Y. Otsuki
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20870

Hic Locus Est Ubi Mortui Viveuntes Docent (p 942)
R. Shane Tubbs, Marios Loukas
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20875

Response to “Hermann Stieve’s clinical-anatomical research on executed women during the ‘Third Reich’” by Winkelmann and Schagen (p 943-944)
Joel Levi
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20869

Response to the letter to the editor by William E. Seidelman: Hermann Stieve’s clinical-anatomical research on executed women during the “‘Third Reich’” (p 945-948)
A. Winkelmann, U. Schagen
Published Online: Oct 22 2009 11:34AM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20871

Book Reviews

The Clinical Anatomy of the Coronary Arteries: An Anatomical Study on 100 Human Heart Dissections by Horia Muresian (p 949)
Daniel O. Graney
Published Online: Oct 5 2009 4:53PM
DOI: 10.1002/ca.20868